What Are We Teaching OUR CHILDREN?

I sat in the car to wait as Sierra went in to Food City to “grab a few things.” I noticed that many folks were carrying out beer, and it wasn’t even the weekend. An early start, I guess.

One scene especially caught my attention. A man and little girl—I would judge to have been a father and daughter—came out of the store. She looked to be about three or four and was holding the man’s hand and skipping along. She seemed to be very happy.

The man was carrying only one thing. You guessed it. It was a case of beer. I wonder what message she was getting.

We yell at our children when they displease us. We scream at our mates and use profanity when we are angry. What are we teaching our children?

We yell at a driver who cuts in front of us on the road and maybe even give him an obscene gesture. What are we teaching our children?

We talk disparagingly about people and run down the church. What are we teaching our children?

You may say, “I don’t do any of those things.” Wonderful. God bless you.

You may say, “I don’t have any children at home.” But, I would remind you that someone is watching you. You are teaching someone by your example—be it good or bad.

Think about it.

FAMILY MATTERS

PRAYER LIST— Skyler Dixon responded to the invitation last Sunday evening to request prayers that he might be a stronger Christian. Please keep this young man in your prayers. . . . Lynn Whitaker's mother, Betty Summers, is hospitalized in Cincinnati with congestive heart failure. The family is looking for assisted living facilities in that area. . . . Chris Wentworth's last PET Scan revealed that her cancer has now spread to her thyroid. Treatment has been suspended as she still has some paralysis from her bout with shingles. . . . Edna Sisk, Sam Martin's neighbor, is now in a nursing room in Sevierville. . . . Jeff Whitaker's mother, Ann Whitaker, is doing slightly better and is scheduled to have her next chemotherapy treatments June 10 and 11. . . . Pam Neal reports that her father, Thomas Hutchinson, will have surgery on his carotid artery in a couple of weeks. . . . Be sure to keep Sharon Simpson and Doris Cronin in your prayers, also.

SYMPATHY—Our sincere sympathy is extended to Chris Bragwell in the passing last Sunday morning of his 94-year-old maternal grandmother, Irene Parker.
