Person to Person . . .

Tom Miller

LOVE IS A COSTLY THING

I have often said that loving someone is the most costly thing a person can do. I recently read a short article by Dr. Michael Moss, Chairman of the Bible Department at Ohio Valley University, which illustrates that.

“A missionary tells the following story of a mother lying on the ground with her tiny baby daughter in her arms. He knew she was starving, but all he had was a cooked sweet potato. He put it into her out-stretched hand and wondered if she would last until the next morning. Her strength was almost gone, but she acknowledged his gift.”

“Taking a bite, the mother chewed it carefully. Then, placing her mouth over her baby’s mouth, she forced the soft warm food into the tiny throat. Although the mother was starving, she used the entire potato to keep her baby alive. Exhausted from her effort, she dropped her head on the ground and closed her eyes. In a few minutes the baby was asleep. During the night the mother’s heart stopped, but her little girl lived.”

Love is a costly thing.

Dr. Moss made the following observation. “God ‘spared not His own Son’ to tell the world of His love. Love is a costly thing, but we must tell the world at any cost. Such love is costly.”
